

Washington University Center for Aging
Fifth Annual Friedman Lecture and Center for Aging Update
May 17, 2004; 8:30am-12noon
Anheuser Busch Hall/ Moot Courtroom

Keynote Speaker: Edward F. Lawlor, PhD, the William E. Gordon Professor and Dean of the George Warren Brown School of Social Work at Washington University in St. Louis.

Continental Breakfast (8:30-9:00am)

Welcoming Remarks	John C. Morris, MD, Director of the Center for Aging and the Harvey A. and Dorismae Friedman Distinguished Professor of Neurology
Report on "Maximizing Civic Engagement of Older Adults: A Public Forum in St. Louis"	Nancy Morrow-Howell, PhD, George Warren Brown School of Social Work and the Ralph and Muriel Pumphrey Professor of Social Work
Update on the Curriculum Committee	Kellie Flood, MD, Division of Geriatric Medicine and Nutritional Science
Update on Pilot Projects 2004	Pascale Michelon, PhD, Department of Psychology
	Paul Shaw, PhD, Division of Anatomy and Neurobiology
Presentation of 2005 Awards	*Alene and Meyer Kopolow Award *Harvey A. and Dorismae Friedman Award *Pilot Research Awards *Education and Research Proposal Award
Break
Friedman Lecture	Edward Lawlor, PhD The Nexus Between Research and Public Policy in Aging
Remarks: The Center for Aging at Washington University	Mark Wrighton, PhD, Chancellor, Washington University in St. Louis
Closing Remarks	John C. Morris, MD